

'BUILDING SOLIDARITY IN ASYLUM POLICY'

4th & 5th November. Brussels

Biography

Aspasia Papadopoulou is Senior Advocacy Officer at ECRE, where she leads and develops ECRE's work on the 'external dimension' of European asylum policy, monitoring EU cooperation and programmes supporting refugees in third countries, and EU policies affecting migrant access to Europe by land and sea.

Aspasia previously worked in the European Commission's EuropeAid Cooperation Office. She has also worked with UNHCR in Tunisia and in Greece, the Global Commission on International Migration (GCIM) in Geneva, and NGOs. She holds a Masters degree from Kings College London and a PhD from Oxford University. Her academic research focuses on mixed migration flows to Europe, transit migration and the challenges to asylum inside and outside European borders.
